One in five Australians engages in voluntary work: Census

- Almost one in five, or 18% of Australians 15 years of age and over reported that they had done voluntary work in the year before the 2006 Census. Of those, 57% were female and 43% were male.
- Canberra was the capital city with the highest proportion of people doing voluntary work (22.3%). Sydney and Perth had the lowest proportions of people volunteering (14.8% and 15.1% respectively).
- Western Australia was the state with the lowest proportion of volunteers (16.8%).

Some interesting aspects of the response:

- Those born in North America, including the United States and Canada, were most likely to be volunteers in the Australian Community (29.9%), followed by those born in Micronesia and Melanesia (21.8%). Australian-born came in third at 20.6%.
- Those born in South Eastern Europe were least likely to be volunteers (6.4%).
- More comprehensive statistics on voluntary work can be found in Voluntary Work, Australia 2006 (ABS cat. no. 4441.0).

NB: The figures in this fact sheet exclude overseas visitors. Where an answer to a question has not been provided (i.e. not stated) these occurrences form a separate category in the data and therefore some percentages do not total to 100%.
